Midtown Alley's "engine" is the 3000 block of Locust Street but cruises all the way from Theresa Avenue to the west, Leffingwell to the east, and Highway 40 to the south.

After sitting idle for years, the neighborhood is revved up with new life from businesses, restaurants, galleries, shops and lofts. Many buildings are the work of famed architect, Preston Bradshaw, and showcase beautiful design and detail.

Come to Midtown Alley and discover the historic neighborhood that's on the fast track to becoming St. Louis' newest hot spot.
